

Cooperative community

We think of knowledge as a social good and a historical and collective construction.

We boost training and promotion activities related to the cooperative business model and its values.

We promote the use of free software in all areas, understanding that it guarantees technological independence and free access to knowledge, the only guarantors of digital sovereignty.

Following this principles, we have been carrying out knowledge dissemination activities.

Incubator

We helped more than 10 cooperatives on their own creation by offering support during the conception, start-up and business growth, providing the necessary resources for the transformation of ideas and entrepreneurial projects into companies with high development potential and committed to their community

Free minds is a platform, a collective construction, the fulfillment of a dream that keeps finding us along the way. The spirit is to share what we do, know and like: software technology related to learning and collaborative culture.
